

Princess Priscilla was very excited to wear her new mood ring. Now her moods would be easy to see, She thought, “No more mood guessing for me!”

She wiggled and giggled and shook until the mood ring rested on her middle. That was the right spot. One quick look in the mirror and she liked it a lot!

In the hall with her friends, Priscilla talked and giggled. What was her mood? She couldn't tell. She checked her ring and it turned purple; a beautiful sight!

Purple was the color for joy and the ring was right. Priscilla would stay purple as long as she could—it was a mood that felt really good!

