

Tools At Work!

Written and Illustrated by Matthew Johnson

When you get older, what work will you do?

What job will you have?
Do you have a clue?

A scientist uses me to look really close at things that are tiny, seldom seen by most.

Look through my lens and inside there dwells
a world of atoms, molecules, and cells.

What tool am I?

I am a ...
Microscope!

Dress up and pose. Now hold really still.
You'll take a great picture, I just know you will.

I'll zoom in and focus, so big smile please.
If you don't feel like smiling, just say ... CHEESE!

What tool am I?

I am a ...
Camera!

So now you know that a tool can be more than you thought before.
Not just hammers, not just wrenches, and sometimes not from a store.

Whatever job you choose, whatever is right for you, work really hard and do your best. There's nothing you can't do!
